HIGH SCHOOL ORATORY

FORREST BAILEY, LOS ANGELES, SAYS SPEAKING MUST BE PRACTICAL

In his address Wednesday afternoon before the national council of teachers of English at the National Education association at Oakland, Forrest Bailey, Manual Arts high school, Los Angeles, gave an interesting address on "The Possibilities of Public Speaking in the High School." He said in part:

Public speaking, if it is to claim a place in the reconstructed English course, must do so in conformity with the present insistent demand for what is "practical."

The public speaking that is meant is the oral presentation before an audience of ideas relating to public affairs.

The "practical" nature of this form of exercise in high schools will be recognized, if we agree that skill in the uses of language is one of the most important things to strive for in the English course. In particular, some of the practically valuable results for the students should be the following:

1. Extension of interests and information.
2. Power of ordered thinking.
3. Spantaneity — the loss of restraint and self consciousness in expression.
4. Increased language efficiency.

Some of the agencies which will enter into the training are the following:

1. In general, a greater emphasis on spoken English in all high school classes.
2. The class in discussion (for the younger students).
3. The class in argumentation and debate.
4. Study of specimens of the best contemporary spoken English.

Such a method as the one suggested may be shown to have produced desirable results. Public speaking in the high school, therefore, has already justified itself and passed the stage of experiment.

The drift of all the complaints against the old fashioned English curriculum — the course of study which aimed at the saving of souls through belles lettres—seems to be that it failed to give our boys and girls proficiency in the practical uses of language. We teachers are ready at last to abandon the sophisticated literary standards we adopted in our university days, in favor of something that lies nearer to the world of affairs than it does to scholarship and the library. In other words, our new endeavor is in the direction of making the intelligence of our boys and girls fairly articulate in spoken and written English. We are willing to subordinate the development of literary taste and artistry to that humbler aim. The place and the scope of public speaking, or of any other new activity which it is proposed to introduce into the high school English course, must be determined by reference to this test—what value will it have as a means to better language efficiency?

Public speaking is only one degree removed from the plainest and most natural of the forms of expression used by everybody—namely, talk. Sometime we shall correct our view of the thing called style, and then we shall realize that even in the field of literature itself—at least of prose literature—it is good talk that furnishes the standard and is the sign of mastery. The power of good talk, Carlyle to the contrary notwithstanding, is one of the things which the man of today needs. and it is one of the things that a scholastic type of education is likely to neglect entirely. It is because of its close relation to plain honest talk—one of the most familiar things in the world and one of the most useful—that public speaking is going to claim a place in the reconstructed English course.

Practice in public speaking should serve as a partial corrective of bad habits of common speach. The person who is making a public speech is aware at once of the difficulty there is in establishing an intimacy of relationship with his audience; and yet that intimacy is of the essence of what I have called "good talk." The intimacy to which I refer is precisely what gives to conversation—the "turning together"—its immense advantage over all the other means of communication between men. At the same time it is responsible for most of the slovenliness of common speech. This is so because the very facility with which we get ourselves understood in the eye-to-eye intercourse of conversation is an encouragement to disregard the niceties of language. Lacking that intimacy of contact, but feeling a need for the complete and sympathetic understanding and for the free interplay of personality which it implies, the boy or girl who is learning to reach an audience will be quick to realize the necessity of discovering and cultivating the resources of his language.

FOR NEW METHODS

O. M. PLUMMER SAYS MEMBERS OF BOARDS OF EDUCATION SHOULD KEEP IN ADVANCE

O. M. Plummer, president of the department of school administration at the National Education association, now meeting in Oakland, gave an interesting address this week. Mr. Plummer is a member of the board of education of Portland, Ore. He said in part:

Members of the boards of education should be very important factors in the National Education association. Once each year educators from all over the United States come together and discuss all phases of educational activities.

The heads of the large industries are always on the outlook for new ideas and for new machinery. Let a better way of doing a certain thing be reported in any part of the world, immediately the old method is discarded and the new adopted. The handling of school affairs should be along same lines. If the people of the New York schools have discovered some new truth along educational lines, we of the west coast should be put in touch with it at once.

Participation by our members in this national meeting better fits us for our mark; also it makes us firm supporters of the ideas advanced by our superintendent as a result of his observations made at this same gathering. As the board of education is the foundation of all things educational from a public school standpoint, the department of school administration should become one of the strongest in the entire organization. There is no office within the gift of the people which carries with it more honor than that of a member of a board of education, and no man or woman in any community has it within his power to be of more usefulness than a school director. Only a person who thoroughly loves children and who places their welfare above everything should be eligible for the position. A member who confines his attention to the tax levy entirely to the utter disregard of the child, is a menace to any school board. There is hardly a community in the country which will not back their board of education to the limit if they feel the appropriations are expended wisely. There is no better constructive publicity for a city than to be known over the entire country as a city of good schools—to be known as "the" city of good schools has a value twenty-fold greater.

Let us bring our business interests and our Chambers of Commerce to realize the far-reaching importance of education, to the end that they will back every sane request for financial aid.

JUDGE MILLER'S COURT

Judge Miller has had quite a deal of business in his court lately. An important case was that of George Callas of Los Angeles, who was charged with killing quail out of season. This offense is particularly heinous at the present time when the birds are either completing hatching their eggs or are taking care of their young broods. Callas was fined $15.

Fred Scholls, accused of stealing railroad bonding from the Montrose and Glendale railway, was held to answer to the superior court.

Fritz Bauer, who was similarly caught and arraigned at the same time as Scholls, was also held over to the superior court.

C. D. Morgan, a butcher from Los Angeles, was convicted of having left a fire burning in the Big Tejunga canyon and was fined $50.

Stephen Abonizio, convicted of keeping a blind pig, was fined $300 and sentenced to six months in jail.

John Ritter, also in the blind pig business, was fined $250 and six months.

BALL GAME SATURDAY

There is every promise of a fast ball game Saturday at the Union high school playground. The Glendale boys have got together a strong team and with Hastings Bidwell playing first and the two DeWars as pitcher and catcher, should put up a formidable offensive and defensive against their fast and strong opponents, the college alumni. The public is invited to view the game, which will begin at 2 p. m., and to encourage the local players by their presence and support.

DAYLIGHT BANDITS ROB CITY BANK

THREE MEN HOLD UP BANK MANAGER AND GET $500 WHILE CUSTOMERS AND POLICEMEN STAND BY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—Three bandits entered the branch of the Home Savings bank on East First street, opposite the police station, at 11:35 this morning and robbed H. C. Hunt, the bank manager, of $500. W. Spott, the bookkeeper, disarmed one robber. The bandits escaped in an auto. Bank customers and policemen were standing by while the robbery was carried out.

After leaving the bank the bandits, pursued by policemen on motorcycles, fought a running combat with pistols in the downtown streets. Hard pressed by their pursuers, they finally abandoned their automobile, commandeered another at the point of revolvers, and escaped to the suburbs. Two of them are believed to be hiding in Griffith park.

EARL COOPER WINS

Stutz Car First in 300-Mile Chicago Cup Race at Elgin, Ills.

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

ELGIN, Ills., Aug. 20.—Earl Cooper, driving a Stutz car, this afternoon won the 300-mile Chicago cup auto road race from a field of nine starters. Those in the race were three Stutz drivers, Bragg, Cooper and Gil Anderson; De Palma, driving a Mercedes; P. Henderson, with a Duzenburg; Ed O'Donnell, with a Duzenburg; Otto Henning, in a Mercer; W. W. Brown, driving a Chesneau, and A. A. Scott in an Anderson Special.

The bunch of crack drivers started out with a vim. De Palma was the favorite, with Earl Cooper a close second. For the first time in road racing the "also rans" got a share of the money.

To every driver finishing 100 miles will be given $100, and $200 to every driver finishing 200 miles. The distance run was 301 miles. The cup trophy carries with it a purse of $3000. Forty-four assistants, including telephone girls, kept the spectators informed as to the positions of the cars during the races, using the monster Pendleton score board.

TEN DEAD IN ST. LOUIS

Terrific Rainstorm Maroons 500 People in the Street Cars

WAR TRADE IN HORSES

STATE VETERINARIAN SAYS THE COUNTRY IS BEING DENUDED OF HORSES AND MULES

(Special Correspondence)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 20.—Dr. C. F. Keane, state veterinarian, believes that the selling of American horses and mules to European belligerents is economically, morally and patriotically wrong. He says:

"It is economically wrong because the enormous shipments are fast ridding not only California, but the whole country of prize stock. The seller undoubtedly gets a good figure, but stop and think what it will mean during the next few years. It will bring about a great dearth of animals and the price will go up by leaps and bounds. This condition is assured by reason of the fact that European buyers are now securing all the brood mares they possibly can.

"It is patriotically wrong because if our own country should get into difficulties we would be left in the lurch when it came to supplying horses and mules for the army.

"It is morally wrong because these dumb animals are sent to sure destruction. The average life of a horse or mule after reaching the battle front is ten days."

One of the biggest shipments from California since the war started was made this week when 500 extra large mules were put on a train at Roseville, and there are 1500 more assembled there.

MONDAY WILL BRING CHANGE

The standing of the contestants in the Evening News subscription contest remains unchanged today, but this week's business will likely bring about a change in Monday's published list. The order of the names as published in today's issue is really as the candidates stand according to the work done. If you wish your friend to get a higher place in the list, the only way to get that higher place for him or her is to do some real substantial work.

Well wishing will not help your friend change his position in the list of names. A subscription paid for one or more years for the Evening News or the Tri-City Progress is what will count in this instance.

The Glendale Evening News is founded on "staying" principles, as is likewise the Tri-City Progress, so you can make no mistake in urging a friend to subscribe for either paper.

Now is the time to do the work for your friends and not after the contest closes. How often we hear the very common remark, "If I had only thought I would have been pleased to assist such a one, but I thought she would win without my assistance."

The standing of the various contestants at 1:30 p. m. today are as follows:

1—Morse Preeman.
2—Miss Cora Hickman.
3—Mrs. J. C. May.
4—Miss Ruth Wright.
5—Mrs. Albert Pearce.
6—Newton McGillis.
7—Miss Virginia Graham.

HORSESHOE MATCH

Quite an interesting match was fought out by the knights of the horseshoe Thursday, when the skilled quoit players of Long Beach invaded Glendale to wipe out their last defeat at the hands of the foothill club. The array on both sides was formidable and the match was close, Long Beach winning by four games, and being actually twenty-three points ahead of the local team. As far as "ringers" were concerned, Glendale had the best of it, showing 344 to Long Beach's 333. Following are the scores:

REPORTS ON ROAD

MEETING TO BE HELD TUESDAY TO CONSIDER OPENING UP SYCAMORE CANYON

That something will shortly be done to provide Glendale with more boulevards is practically certain. The city officials have been considering a plan of this kind for some time and are getting ready to act on whatever system may be adopted. A meeting for the consideration of the question of opening up Sycamore canyon will be held in the city hall on Tuesday at 3 p. m., to which everybody is invited.

"There is no north or south street between Adams and Verdugo road on the east side of the city," said City Manager Watson to a representative of the Glendale Evening News. "It has long been felt that there was need of a street in that part of Glendale. At a recent meeting for consideration of opening up streets in that section committees were appointed to investigate and report at a meeting to be called later.

"One of those committees, consisting of Mr. Patterson, L. E. Brockman and P. A. C. Moore, was appointed to interview Mr. Anderson, who recently purchased Sycamore canyon, and to secure his co-operation for the extension of a boulevard through his property to connect with the foothills boulevard by way of Senator Flint's La Canada property, "Flint Ridge." That committee has attended to its work and Mr. Anderson will be present at the meeting on Tuesday.

"Another committee consisting of W. W. McElroy, H. C. Cooper, G. B. Woodberry and City Engineer Lynch will report as to the best location for a street between Adams and Verdugo road.

"Dr. Mabry of Tropico will report as to the feasibility of continuing the road in a southwesterly direction through the city of Tropico to Brand boulevard. The doctor's report will be favorable.

"At the recent meeting above referred to the question of installing an underground conduit to take care of the surplus waters of Sycamore canyon was discussed and those present decided that the cost of an underground conduit would be prohibitive. It was stated that the surplus water could be taken care of on the new streets, which are in contemplation, at a much less cost, while the city would have the improvements.

"It may be stated in this connection that through the city of Tropico there runs a deep ravine which extends to the southern boundary of the city of Glendale. This ravine would from that point take care of the waters of the canyon. When completed this boulevard will extend from San Fernando road, along Cypress avenue in Tropico, across Brand to Glendale, circling round the foot of the Tropico hills, northeast to Tenth street in Tropico, thence north along the route of the proposed railway along the Childs tract line to Broadway, passing the depot at Parkside, which has been deeded to the Pacific Electric railway, thence northerly crossing Verdugo road at Sycamore canyon road, which would be widened to fifty feet, thence northeasterly to the property recently purchased by Mr. Anderson. From that point it would extend to the foothills boulevard and on to Pasadena.

"Boulevards are becoming indispensable for the development of any section of a city. Glendale cannot have too many of them. This contemplated boulevard would be of immense benefit to the city and would be in line with that future development toward which everyone of us confidently is looking. I would impress on everyone interested in the development of the section of the city under consideration that he or she should be out at the meeting on Tuesday afternoon."

IN COUNTY HOSPITAL

William Case, the Glendale man who was found by the Tropico police Monday night lying on the sidewalk at Acacia and Glendale avenue, suffering from a revolver wound, has been removed from the Tropico hospital to the county hospital. Case is now alleged to have inflicted the wound on himself in despair over some love affair. He had been attending the K. of P. lodge meeting on Monday night and some of the members of that organization walked part of the way home with him. At that time he exhibited no abnormal signs. He is expected to recover.

The merchant who sells goods at cost cannot continue in business very long.

UNDUE REPRESSION OF YOUTHFUL ENJOYMENT

People are too often apt to forget as they grow older that they were ever young. They forget that there is such a thing as youthful mirth and glee. You can see them making wry faces as they hear someone quote Milton's beautiful apostrophe to mirth in "L'Allegro:"

"Haste Thee nymph and bring with Thee
Mirth and youthful jollity,
Quips and cranks and wanton wiles,
Nods and becks and wreathed smiles,
Such as play on Hebe's cheek
And love to dwell in dimple sleek."

Yes, that was John Milton, the friend and secretary of Oliver Cromwell, with whom, when the day was done and the shadows of evening deepened along with the shadows of state, he was wont to indulge in pleasing music—Milton playing the organ of which he was a master; while the great Protector listened and the cares that infested the day "folded their tents like the Arabs and as silently stole away."

Such a scene would be hateful to many of our modern repressionists. To many, the youthful smile, the innocent mingling of youth with youth, the innocent enjoyment of the family dance; or of the social dance under proper supervision is an abomination. They will have none of these things. Life is no longer to contain any relaxation simply because they no longer are able to enjoy such amusement.

If you study such people you will find that while they are ever ready to repress, shut down and stamp out all amusements of boyhood or girlhood they have nothing to put in their place. There is to be no more fun simply because they have turned what they are pleased to call virtuous. The world has had such people in all ages. From the very first century of the Christian era they have called on the innocent and young to forget that there is such a thing as youth or innocence; to believe that there is virtue in senility and salvation in the mental attitude that believes there is wrong and evil in the most simple things—things in which no innocent mind could ever see evil. Common acts, looks, words—all must be eschewed simply because a type of mind, the narrowest and most unlovable that has ever managed to exist in this lovely world which God has given for our enjoyment, has placed its ban on them all.

It is needless to say that youth will be youth and that joy will be joy long after those bloodless, heartless expounders of a soulless creed have been relegated to the gloom that they desire. Things that are natural are all innocent. Canon Kingsley, the famous author of "Hypatia" and "Westward Ho!" once said that he was on the point of reproving a little child for laughing in a graveyard when he heard a glorious chorus of birds break forth from a little laurel set on a grave. The laurel was blooming, the sign of victory; the birds were singing—the sign of triumph; and the child was laughing. "All was good," he said, "life had triumphed over death and God had taught me a lesson."

When we feel inclined to be curt and stern with youth, which laughs simply out of the fullness of joy in its heart, let us remember that God has made it so and that it is all very good. If those severe critics of youthful fun had anything to offer in place of what youth finds for itself it might be different. Theirs is a religion of absolute negation. They have nothing to offer. "Ex nihilo nihil fit," said the Latin writer,—out of nothing, nothing is made. Their religion ends in nothing. Therefore it accomplishes nothing. While the world lasts, the young man and the young woman will rejoice in their youth; youth will be drawn to youth and will make merry and rejoice because "God's in his Heaven and all's right with the world."

REVIVAL OF ANCIENT RELIGION

One of the semi-humorous jests against a certain Jewish mission was made in a certain religious assembly when one of its members pointed out that it had taken exactly $10,500 in a certain year to convert two Jews and a half. The sting in the jest lay in its truth. As a modern critic once said the hopelessness of trying to convert Jews to Christianity is seen in the fact that a modern Jew is just as moral a man as a modern Christian. Whatever one may think of the attitude adopted by certain critics to the work being done in foreign lands by Christians there can be no doubt that those missions have accomplished vast good. They have turned the hearts of followers of Asiatic religions to the study of what is good in their religions and caused a casting out of old superstitions and a clearing away of many accumulations of falsehood that have incrusted the religions of the East.

Let no one imagine for one moment that the missionaries of Christianity have accomplished nothing in the far East. They have done wonders. They have made the orientals think and study their own religions even if they have not adopted ours and they have laid the foundation for a common understanding between men of all nations and all religions. Their work has been largely preparatory and preliminary to the constructive era when men of all creeds will come together and when men no longer shall say, "Know ye the Lord; but when all shall know him, from the greatest even unto the least."

In view of this work that has been and is being done by the Christian missionary in the far East it is interesting to note that there has recently been a revival in the teachings of Confucius and Mencius, the two greatest religious teachers, if we may so call them, of ancient China. Their moral system of 2000 years' standing is well worthy of consideration and so the Chinese are finding it.

Confucian disciples both in China and Japan are uniting to study and teach the ancient morality of China, in the ancient center where Confucius was born and lived—Chefoo. A temple is there sacred to the memory of Confucius. Confucianism is for orientals. It is an excellent system saturated with the oriental spirit and morals and is specially suited to the Chinese whose national solidarity has been based on the Confucian system of political ethics.

This revival of the ancient religion is undoubtedly the result of the general awakening of religious thought occasioned by the teaching of Christian missionaries in China and Japan. The Japanese are as much interested in this revival as the Chinese. It seems a thousand pities that at a time when Christian influence is doing so much for the far East, Christian example in the West, as exemplified in the internecine war in Europe, is doing so much to undo that influence. Those things, however, are under a higher power than that of the world and no matter what men may do the whole creation is gradually working toward a divine consummation.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. I. Ross Kurtz of 1101 Melrose avenue were deeply bereaved Thursday, August 19, when their baby daughter, Winona Patricia, passed away. The little one had been ill only since Sunday and her sudden death brought sadness indeed into the home which she came to brighten only six months ago. Little Winona was a bright baby, the joy of the home and of the friends and neighbors of the family, and the stricken parents are the recipients of the heartfelt and loving sympathy of all who know them. Only a year ago Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz lost a beautiful little girl, Florence, and now the death of the baby who came to lighten the blow is indeed a trial. Besides her parents, two brothers and a sister, Harold, Webster and Ellen, mourn the baby's death. Funeral services will be held at the Pulliam undertaking parlors Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. E. E. Francis officiating.

New York is complaining because it pays one-fourth of the nation's income tax. There would be more sympathy for New York under the circumstances if it hadn't done so much bragging about its wealth.

FISH TO FEED FISH

Superintendent W. G. Steel is experimenting this summer in the propagation in Crater Lake of small fish of the innumerable minnow family. It is a problem not the easiest to solve, for, occupying the crater of an extinct volcano, the lake has no shallows and no streams enter or leave it in which small fish may find refuge. Yet the supply of natural fish food must be considerably and immediately increased if the magnificent trout fishing in this lake is to remain at its present excellence. Minnows must be brought from distant waters under adverse conditions.

Whether it be from the temperature or the quality of the water is not known, but it is the testimony of experienced anglers that, pound for pound, Crater lake trout are harder fighters than trout found elsewhere.

The individual or the nation without ideals is miserably poverty-stricken.

UNCLE SAM ACCEPTS THEM.

CASA VERDUGO

Mr. H. B. Thill of Philadelphia, Pa., spent three days this week visiting his sister, Mrs. I. R. Kurtz. Mr. Thill was enroute to the exposition at San Francisco and is also a delegate to the American Bankers' Institute now in annual session in that city, and before which he presents a paper as the representative of the Provident Life and Trust bank of Philadelphia.

Wm. A. Robinson and wife of 1647 Stocker street left recently for Toronto, Canada, upon receipt of a telegram informing Mr. Robinson that his father was on his death bed.

G. F. Lewis and family, formerly of Montana, are now occupying the premises at 1628 Ruth street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Becker and daughters of Melrose avenue returned Tuesday from a two weeks' visit to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll and sons recently started for a month's visit traveling in the family motor car to the exposition at San Francisco.

Grandpa and Grandma Karl Pickens, after a residence of over five years at 906 San Rafael street, returned to the old home in Decatur, Ills., to spend their remaining days. The decision whether to join their son, August, and family, who recently removed from Casa Verdugo to a dairy ranch near Lancaster, or occupy the old home, still retained in Decatur, hung in the balance for weeks, with the result that the call from "back east" among other children, grandchildren and old neighbors and friends proved the stronger. The Casa Verdugo home has been placed on the market.

Safe and Hillman, the transcontinental—Los Angeles to Boston and return—motorcycle tourists, have reported that they reached the Yellowstone national park on time, where they spent a week enjoying the "time of their lives." Their time table dates them past Chicago by this time.

So far as the returns have come in, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Saegar of North Central avenue have the record in Casa Verdugo for entertaining the most relatives enroute to and from the expositions at San Francisco and San Diego. They have hailed from Wyoming, Minnesota and other states, and now Virginia has reported through cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Jackson. Mr. Jackson is the "apple king" of Virginia, his crops returning annually anywhere from $30,000 to $45,000. They reside at Winchester in the famous Shenandoah valley, a city of some 7500, located due north of Appomattox and its famous apple tree. Winchester is also the town from which Sheridan was "only twenty miles away" in the sixties. It is hard to convince a Virginian that these United States have any superior to their own, even though California is unique in many respects. Here is the way they put it:

In Virginia

The roses nowhere bloom so white
As in Virginia;
The sunshine nowhere shines so bright
As in Virginia;
The birds sing nowhere quite so sweet,
And nowhere hearts so lightly beat,
For heaven and earth both seem to meet
Down in Virginia.

There nowhere is a land so fair
As old Virginia;
So full of joy and free from care
As old Virginia;
And I believe that Happy Land
That God prepared for mortal man
Is built exactly on the plan
Of old Virgina.

The days are never quite so long
As in Virginia;
Nor quite so filled with happy song
As in Virginia;
And when my time has come to die,
Just take me back and let me lie
Close where the James goes rolling by
Down in Virginia.

Some one has said, "Tell me the songs of a nation and I will tell you the character of its people." Which may also be applied to "old Virginia," the mother of presidents, and to California as well, with its famous state song.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Randolph, 855 South Glendale avenue, for an all-day meeting. Lunch was served at noon at long tables in the dining room, which was prettily decorated in red and green. The time was spent in sewing for the new Methodist hospital in Los Angeles and for the Spanish home for girls in Hollywood. Twenty-five ladies were present.
